A Picnic

Yesterday, my parents and I went to the country park for a picnic. It was sunny. My Dad drove us to the country park. We brought a lot of food, like sandwiches, salad and chicken wings. They looked delicious. I felt excited.

When we arrived there, we found a tree and we put the picnic cloth on the ground floor near the tree. There was a river. There were some ducks. We felt comfortable. Then we started eating the food. I helped my mum to make the sandwiches, so I thought it was a nice experience and they were delicious.

When we almost finished our food, we left some bananas and cherries. Suddenly, a monkey came to take away our food and chased away. My parents and I chased the monkey. That Monkey ran very fast. We saw it on the tree. We saw some people next to us. They said, 'We're going to catch this monkey because it hit other people.' When I saw the monkey in the cage, I was pleased by the people because they helped us to catch that monkey. Although my fruit was given to that monkey, that monkey did not hit us. I thanked the people.

What did you do yesterday? How did you feel?
